Subject: Barrow Hanley Business Update (3/16/2020) – COVID-19

Barrow Hanley is closely monitoring the current circumstances of Coronavirus (“COVID-19”) and its potential impacts on our employees, clients, and business operations. Barrow Hanley has disaster recovery and business contingency plans in place for a pandemic or other business disruption and has recently tested them successfully. Our business continuity plan provides remote access for employees to work from home, and it has been tested in both hypothetical and real conditions.

We are actively reviewing company, employee, and service provider preparedness to limit the impact as much as possible on business operations and our employees’ health and safety. Toward this end, we have communicated CDC recommendations to employees for infection prevention and reviewed employees’ remote access to business systems. Our business activities including portfolio management, trading and settlement, and service to our clients and constituents will continue uninterrupted. If you have questions or need additional information, please contact us at marketing@barrowhanley.com.

Sincerely,
